Settlers Ask for Troops to Protect Them.

SERIOUS TROUBLE FEARED

POCATELLO, Idaho, July 22.-From pres ent indications the conflict between the settlers in the Jackson's Hole country in northeastern Idaho and northwestern Wyoming and the Indians is not at an end. Although news of the trouble has been suppressed, it is now positively known that at east four Indians were Filled. Just a week ago word was received at the Bannock agency, twelve miles north of here, that several hundred Bannock Indians and Shoshone Indians had come in conflict with the settlers, and all the available Indian police were sent out to bring the hunters back. Today the wanderers arrived once more on their reservation, but they are far from being in as peaceful a frame of mind as when they left, for in a wagon acompanying the returning band were the bedies of four dead bucks. It has been bedies of four dead bucks. It has been given out all along that only one Indian was killed, and the trouble has been made as light of as possible. White Bear, captain of the Indian police, admitted that he brought back the four bucks, and the trouble was regarded so sericusly by Indian Agent Teter that he himself went to assist in starting the wayward hunters home. The band of between two and three hundred, which arrived today, is in a surly mood.

Of course, they talked little to white men but one of the bucks said they were only coming to the reservation to get more ammunition, and then were going back to kill the "whole white man." Similar threats have caused the present uneasiness among those in Wyoming, and unless the Indians return quietly to their homes Agent Teter will request that the seventh infantry from Fort Russell, at Cheyenne, or the eighth cavalry from Boise be at once sent to this

They complain bitterly that the red hunters have no respect whatever for their rights or property. Crops are trodden under the feet of their penies and women insulted. There are 1.800 Bannock and Shoshone Indians on the reservation. J. C. Houtz, a wealthy ranchman of Soda Springs, and one of his herders, while trying to cross Salt river to Houtz's ranch, seventy-five miles northeast of here, were stopped with rifles in the hands of the Indian police. The police said the Indians were on the war path. Mr. Houtz says the police told him that the Indians had killed a white man, his wife and children, and that the settlers had rallied and killed six Indians.

Gov. Richards' Assurance.

Gov. Richards' Assurance. CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 22.-Gov. Richards has received a number of anxious incuiries from eastern friends of members of the nineteenth annual geological survey from Princeton College, now making a trip in northwestern Wyoming, who have a trip in northwestern Wyoming, who have been reported captured by Bannocks and massacred. Gov. Richards is certain that no harm has befallen the students. The fight between settlers and Bannock Indians occurred July 4 in Jackson's Hole region near the western Wyoming line, directly south of the Yellowstone National Park. On July 5 the Princeton students were at Lander, in Fremont county, over 100 miles from the scene of the trouble. The expedition remained in Lander for several days and then proceeded slowly up the Big Wind river toward the northwest in search of specimens and to examine the geological formations west of Fort Washakie. The country in which they were to travel is comparatively well settled, and for at least fifty miles along the Big Wind river there are numerous ranches. The country to be examined by them is within easy reach of Fort Washakie, where there are two companies of United States infantry and a number of Indian police.

From Fort Washakle. NEW YORK, July 22. party of Princeton students engaged in geological explorations in Wyoming had been captured by Bannock Indians caused much apprehension among the friends of the students in this city. Robert F. Little, whose son, Robert F. Little, ir., is with the expedition, immediately sent the following telegram: "Commandant, Fort Washakie, expedition, immediately sent the following telegram: "Commandant, Fort Washakle, Wyo.: Telegraph immediately if any truth in rumor that Princeton boys captured by Indians. R. FORSYTH LITTLE."

Mr. Little received the following telegram today: "Fort Washakle, July 22.—R. Forsyth Little: No truth in report, nothing known here. CRAMER, Com."

The last place the party were heard from is Crow creek, on Big Wind river, forty-six miles from Fort Washakle.

The report that the Princeton geological expedition, which is now in Wyoming, may have met with trouble at the hands of the Bannock Indians has caused considerable apprehension, owing to the fact that a Washington boy is in the party and a number of the other young men are well known in this city. The Washington boy is Talbot Eugene Pierce, 1119 17th street, a son of Mr. Perry B. Pierce, an examiner in the patent office.

The party of students left Princeton on June 20 for Denver, their object being to collect geological and fossil specimens from the Bad Lands in Colorado and Wyoming. The party is in charge of Prof. J. B. The report that the Princeton geological Millbank of New York city; E. R. Otheman, 1895, of New York city; J. W. Garrett, 1895, of Baltimore; L. F. Pease, 1895, of Germantown, Pa.; J. H. Brooks, 1895, of Scranton, Pa., A. A. Brownlee, Seminary of Indiana, Pa.; Boyer Davis, 1896, of Philadelphia; T. E. Pierce, 1896, of New York city; Walter Moses, 1895, of Trenton, N. J., and A. F. Little, jr., 1896, of New York city. N. J., and York city.

Stopped in Washington on Their Way On their way west the party stopped in Washington for several hours. They were traveling in the private car belonging to Mrs. J. Harrison Garrett of Baltimore, the sister-in-law of Mr. Robert Garrett, and herself a woman of great wealth. She had two sons in the graduating class at Princeton this year, and has made her heme at Princeton while her boys were in college. She took one of the handsomest houses in town and kept open house at all times for the members of the senior class. She also had a younger son in the sophomore class. One of her sons is a member of the western party. Walter Moses is a member of one of the wealthiest and best-known families of Trenton, and, in fact, all the boys represent families of means, for in these Princeton expeditions it is customary for the members to pay their share of the expenses of the summer, which amounts to a very considerable sum. the sister-in-law of Mr. Robert Garrett.

Former Expeditions of This Kind. Expeditions of this sort have been sent out from Princeton almost every summer for the past twelve or fifteen years, and have resulted in securing for Princeton nave resulted in securing for Princeton one of the finest geological collections in the world and in placing that institution in the first rank in geological work. In former years the expeditions were always in charge of Prof. William B. Scott, who holds the chair of geology. Several years ago, however, through the efforts of some of the alumni, a sum was raised sufficient to secure the permanent services of Mr. or the alumni, a sum was raised sufficient to secure the permanent services of Mr. Hatcher, who is one of the best known collectors in the west, and who was at one time employed by Prof. Marsh of Yale. Since his services were secured by Princeton he his spent each summer in the field and the succeeding winter in Princeton assisting in the work of arranging the collection and assorting the specimes. While they have no connection with the geological survey in any way, these expeditions usually receive considerable assistance from the Interior and War Departments in the way of maps,

How the Parties Are Made Up. The parties are usually made up of the graduating students, and appointments are eagerly sought for, as it makes a pleasant experience for the young men, and gives them a novel outing in the west prior to settling down to active work. As a rule the parties are made up of about a dozen. They go to the nearest large town to the field which it is expected to work, and there they secure their outfit. A big fourhorse wagon is utilized for carrying the camp outfit and for bringing back the specimens. The young men themselves travel on horseback, and the "outfit" makes quite a formidable appearance. The party is always supplied with rifes and ammunition, and on several occasions in the past expeditions of this sort have been threatened by hostile Indians, but there has never been any serious mishap. The trip is usually confined to the two months of July and August. It is customary to have one or more older men in the party. In the present instance Mr. A. A. Brownlee was a member of the class of '80, and has since been in the theological seminary at Princeton in addition to acting in the capacity of tutor to the Garrett boys. The party is also supplied with a guide and a teamster, who are secured on the field. It is thought that if the emergency arose the party could put up a pretty good fight in self-defense.

Bad feeling was caused by complaints made by the whites to the effect that they were unlawfully killing game, and this got the Indians in trouble with the state authorities. A fight ensued, in which several Indians were killed, and since then they have been wandering at large through a wild section of Wyoming.

Letter From Young Pierce. P. B. Pierce, father of T. E. Pierce, one of the party of Princetonians said to have been captured by the Bannock Indians in Idaho, this morning received a letter from his son, dated July 10, with a postscript dated July 15. The postscript was written at the mouth of Perry creek, about sixty miles from Jackson's Hole, where the troubles are said to have occurred. Young Pierce stated that the party was about to start for the Yellowstone through the Union pass. Gov. Richards' dispatch to the Secretary of the Interior last week fixed the date of the fight as July 13. As the students could not have reached the locality before the 18th, Mr. Pierce entertains little anxiety in regard to them. Prof. Hatcher is said to be experienced in Indian ways, and Mr. Pierce has full confidence in his ability to handle the party safely.

No Knowledge at the War Department If the party of students is in any danger the officials of the War Department are not aware of it, as the matter has not been prought to their attention in any form calling for the least action on their part. Gen. Vincent, who, as acting adjutant general, would be first advised of any information in the possession of the military cencerning the party, said today that he knew nothing whatever of the affair beyond what he had read in the newspapers. In his opinion, there was no cause for apprehension as to there was no cause for apprehension as to the safety of the students. The Bannock Indians, he said, are not on the war path, and would not be likely to molest travelers. Although they are off their reservation, it is probably only in the pursuit of game. They seldom make trouble, and are generally regarded as peaceable Indians. Although no orders have been issued on the subject, Gen. Vincent said he took it for granted that the troops in the vicinity will afford all assistance in their power to persons known to be in distress. It was his opinion, however, that the present report originated with some over-anxious port originated with some over-anxious parent, and that time will show that there was no actual cause for alarm.

SEEING INTERESTING SIGHTS.

Large Excursion Visits Old Point, Hampton and Newport News.

Many representative colored citizens of this city spent yesterday in visiting the garrison at Old Point Comfort, the Normal School at Hampton, Va., Newport News and historic Yorktown, in Virginia. They constituted a tourist party, which left this city on Saturday for Norfolk, Va., from which point they visited yesterday these places of interest. The trip was conducted under the auspices of the National Steamboat Company, and Mr. F. D. Lee, the general agent of the company, and Mr. O. general agent of the company, and Mr. O. D. Morris, jr., the secretary, arranged for the trip. Maj. C. A. Fleetwood, Mr. R. W. Thempkins and David A. Warner, esq., composed the committee of citizens which conducted the tour. Several hundred colored people made up the party, and were transported to the different sites on the steamer George Leary. They arrived home this morning, and related many interesting incidents in connection with the trip.

LIVELY RAID.

Crap and Poker Games Came to a

Yesterday morning about 1 o'clock there was an exciting time incident to a raid n ade by the officers of the sixth precinct on Fred Dyson's store and home, No. 630 H street northwest. The raiding party was led by Sergeant Lombardy, Policemen Hartigan and Payne being members of it. On the ground floor of the little frame struc-ture there is a store where snow balls, candies and lunches are sold. When the officers reached the house Officer Hartigan rapped on the door and Dyson, appearing at the upper window, inquired: "What do you want?"

"I want to come in."

"Who are you?"

"Tm Mr. Brown, don't you know me?"

"Oh, yes," said Dyson, 'wait a minute."

The officer waited, and when the proprietor opened the door and recognized the officer he made an effort to close the door in his face, but was not successful. Dyson and the officer had a scuffle, but the members of the raiding party succeeded in getting upstairs, and there they brought a game of crap and a gains of poker to a sudden termination. Equipment is gamed to the impression that burglars were about.

Cries of "murder," "police" and "thief" were raised, and the excitement subsided only when it was known that the police were making a raid.

Eighteen men were in the place, and the officers captured two sets of bones and five packs of cards. Many of the players were arrested as witnesses, and Charles Brown, whom, it is alleged, "cut" the game, was arrested with Dyson as a principal.

The defendants gave real estate security for their appearance next week for trial.

Attempted Robbery. made Saturday night near 6th and Q streets, so the police have been informed. According to the complaint, a colored man named Wilson Jackson, employed as messenger by J. D. Burns, the tailor, was on an errand delivering a suit of clothes and a pair of trousers, when he was assaulted by two men, who tried to rob him. Being a muscular man, Jackson held on to his clothing and returned the blows that were showered upon him. He succeeded in frightening off his assallants, and then gave their descriptions to the police.

Alleged Speak-Easy.

Sergeant Daley and Policemen Baur and Knupfer raided an alleged "speak-easy" in a South Washington alley late last night and routed a crowd of colored men who were indulging in beer drinking. There was a keg of beer on tap, and a full keg on ice. Israel Foster and Thomas Holmes, the alleged proprietors, were not anxious to claim ownership, and the drinkers were also anxious to get out when the police appeared. Holmes attempted to jump out the window, but Sergt. Daley grabbed him and held him by the leg of his trousers until the other policemen arrived, and then he was pulled in the window and arrested.

The two men, alleged owners of the place, were in court today, charged with keeping a "speak-easy," and the case went over until tomorrow. and routed a crowd of colored men who until tomorrow.

Watched the Window.

This morning in the Police Court Mr. Pugh, the prosecuting attorney, called Judge Scott's attention to charges of indecent exposure against two young men, Edward I. Goodwin and Harry Moran, who live at No. 40 I street northwest, opposite St. Aloysius Church. Colored people living on Defrees street complained to the police that the young men had been in the habit that the young men had been in the habit of showing themselves at their back window, and had made it unpleasant for them. Saturday Policeman Bean watched the house, and claims that he saw conduct which justified him in making the arrests. Four charges have been filed against them, and they are under bonds for their appearance.

Garbage Investigations.

Dr. Woodward, health officer for the Dis trict, returned Saturday levening from an ir spection tour of the north for the purpose of investigating several systems for the disposal of garbage, He investigated the Engle, Brownlee and improved Mertz crematories, and during his absence he visited Staten Island, Long Island and Camden, N. J. He will report to the Commissioners in the near fitture on the relative merits of the difference but here. missioners in the near fifture on the relative merits of the different systems, but he said this morning that, inasmuch as he had not yet gone over the entire field, he had not committed himself in favor of any one method, and will probably not go to that extent in his forthcoming report.

The Damaged Police Boat.

The Commissioners today forwarded letter in which they asked that they be allowed to use the fish commission boat Petrel pending the necessary repairs to the police boat Joe Blackburn, which was badly damaged by fire last week. After a thorough investigation, Harbormaster Sutthorough investigation, Harbormaster Sutton has come to the conclusion that the fire on the Blackburn had its origin in the boiler room. The boat was insured, and it will probably not be very long before it will be in condition for use again. Just now the harbor police are compelled to rely on their small boats for work on the river, and this involves no small amount of labor on a hot day.

A full suit of masculine apparel was found last night in one of the bath houses at Atlantic City, and no one has appeared to claim the garments. It is feared the owner was drowned.

THE NEW BATTLESHIPS.

Decision as to Their Construction Made Except as to One Point.

The Secretary of the Navy, after consulation with the naval construction board, has settled several points of importance in connection with the construction of the two new battleships. According to the decision finally reached, these vessels will have double-storied turrets, 13-inch guns and high armor belt going five feet six nches below the water line. There is now but one important point to be settled, namely, the weight to be allotted to the nachinery of the battleships. In this case machinery of the battleships. In this case there is a conflict between the construction bureau, which holds that 1,000 tons are quite sufficient for the machinery necessary to develop 11,500 horse power, and afford a speed of sixteen knots, and the engineer bureau, which holds for 1,200 tons for the purpose. The latter points to the fate of the torpedo boat Ericsson, which has failed on many trial trips from breaking down owing to excessively light machinery, as a reason for furnishing the big ships with machinery heavy enough to stand rough usage and forcing.

Confiscated American Nets. A report comes from Crane Lake, Minn. of an encounter between American citizens and Canadian officials. The Canadians cor fiscated the nets set in Namekon lake by the fishing company, on the ground that they were in Canadian waters. Eight men belonging to the Arion company started out in search of their nets, when suddenly three boats filled with Canadian officials darted out from behind an island and pursued them. The little steamer May Carter, on her way to Crane Lake, came along and Captain Hayes put on all steam to rescue the fishermen. In the excitement the Carter struck one of the Canadian boats, smashing it in pieces and spilling four of the officials into the water. Three of the fishermen also fell overboard, but no one was drowned. The Carter picked up all the fishermen except H. E. Fincke, Emil Emis and William Sim, who were captured by the Canadians and taken to Fort Francis. they were in Canadian waters. Eight men
